 Dealer remuneration

Options

- 1 Offer two distinct products per i) car type and ii) channel of purchase:
- Used auto for C2C transactions: "Car cash loan"
 - New or used auto via dealers (B2C): auto loan with conditional pre-approved voucher

Customer journey

Dealer remuneration

- Dealers receive remuneration on new auto and used auto sold via B2C

Pros/ Cons

- Minimal or no cannibalization of dealers' auto financing business
- Lower margin for Eurobank vs. other options
- Lack of awareness around two required steps can prevent Eurobank's customers from moving forward with loan application

- 2 Offer two distinct product per car type:
- Used auto: "Car cash loan"
 - New auto: auto loan with conditional pre-approved voucher

- Dealer remunerated on new auto only

- Only 1 step for Eurobank customers before loan application
- Potential for Eurobank on to capture additional margin on used auto loans
- Potential cannibalization of dealers' commissions on used auto loans

- 3 Offer one product:
- All car types and channels: "Car cash loan"/ balloon financing

- No remuneration to dealers

- Eurobank customers complete directly loan application, without prior steps
- Potentially higher margin capture for Eurobank through the D2C offering (e.g., both used and new car cash loan)
- Potential cannibalization of part of dealers' commissions on used and new auto loans, with risk of potential reactions
